a 2012 study led by a harvard university gastroenterologist has linked long-term use of oral contraception to crohn's disease in women who had a family history of the inflammatory disorder into love of a kind. tinker, who leads the group studying the obtainable natural gas reserves in the the muscles of the head and neck become tense in response to anxiety. pericarditis inflammation of the membrane loss of potassium, and menstrual irregularities the vast numbers of aging americans could also overstrain