it would seem to me that your opinions are generally not totally validated and in actuality you are your self not even wholly convinced of the assertion they have been extremely accommodating anytime i wanted to push a shipping/billing date back, cancel (because i couldn’t afford it for a time), or renew my membership this adds a little to the cost of the driveway because it means 2 smaller deliveries rather than one bulk delivery and it means more labour too as the levelling and compaction happens twice